

FIRO-B®

For more than 40 years, the Fundamental Interpersonal Relations Orientation-Behavior™ (FIRO-B®) assessment has helped people around the world unlock the mysteries of human interaction at work and in their personal life. Easy to complete and to administer, this 54-item self-scorable instrument quickly gathers critical insights into how an individual's needs for inclusion, control, and affection can shape his or her interactions with others. Ideal for use in one-on-one coaching, small groups, or teams, the FIRO-B® tool kit includes a number of narrative and graphic reports, a technical guide, and booklets and other resources that highlight ways to use the assessment as an integral part of team-building initiatives, management training programs, and communication workshops.
